NEW WINE RELEASE

Producer Companhia das Lezírias always seeks to provide high quality wines reflecting the very best of Portugal and its newest red wine Tyto alba is no exception.

This elegant addition to the Tyto alba line is all organic and comes from the Tejo demarcated wine region.

In 2013, Companhia das Lezírias made a commitment to sustainability in the production of its wines, adhering to the fundamental principles of a green economy.

This meant the company pledged to do better with less and reduce its environmental impact. It now consumes less energy, water and raw materials, with fewer emissions and reduced waste.

This organic Tyto Alba wine is the product of Companhia das Lezírias' vision of a sustainable environment.

The 2019 red wine comes from a two-hectare vineyard planted in 2015, and was produced in a less interventional way using techniques with a very low environmental impact in both the vineyard and in the cellar. By focusing on preservation of natural resources, Companhia des Lezírias is helping to mitigate their scarcity through the efficient use of water, soil preservation and biodiversity conservation.

Produced with 100% Alicante Bouschet grape variety, the wine was aged for 13 months in 225L French oak. It has a deep garnet color, notes of black fruit, dry vegetable, graphite and spices. Light toasted notes from the barrel where it aged. Elegant, with prominent acidity, it has a full body and a long finish.

The producer's commitment is not only on the vineyards. The ecological footprint is also greatly reduced by using more efficient materials. The bottle has about 30% less weight, and the capsules and labels are made with ecologically-friendly components. The outer packaging utilizes biodegradable materials. All these techniques result in a much lower environmental impact, founded in principles of a circular economy.

Drinking delicious Tyto alba organic red wine represents a commitment to more responsible consumption. Try it!
